Shark in the Park on a Windy Day
Fun things to do!

Just when you thought it was safe to go back in the park . . .
Timothy Pope is blown this way and that way in the windy park -- but among the whistling wind and blustering brollies could that be a shark he spies through his telescope. Peep through the die-cut hole in the pages of the book to find out. A third book in the bestselling Shark in the Park series -- it’s fin-tastic fun!

Click here to listen to Nick Sharratt read Shark in the Park on a Windy Day!

Make a telescope with your child using a cardboard tube. Look through the telescope and see what you can see. Play I Spy. Take your telescope when you visit the park. Can you see something different?

If it is a windy day, take a scarf outside and explore what happens. Run with it, watch it move in the wind, let it go and chase it!

Click here to read some fascinating Shark Facts

Three Little Flowers
Three little flowers hiding from the snow.
Out came the sun and one began to grow.
Along came the wind and what did flower say?
“Please, mister wind - don’t blow me away!”

The child’s fist is clenched, hiding the three flowers. As the sun comes out in each verse one finger at a time begins to grow. Pretend you are the wind and blow the child’s fingers.

Making ten minutes a day to share books with your child will make a huge difference to their development

www.northlincs.gov.uk/imaginationlibrary