Can you find your eyes, nose, mouth, ears and chin? This book encourages little ones to associate words and pictures with their own bodies. Look in a mirror to help them discover their own faces as you read aloud together.

Look in the Mirror Rhyme

Look in the mirror who do you see?
I see looking back at me.
Laughing, smiling and happy as can be.
Look in the mirror who do you see?
I see looking back at me.

Hold the mirror up to your child's face and ask, "Who's that baby?" Then say their name. Pull the mirror away and watch them. Do they smile? Wave their hands and feet? Do they reach out for the mirror? Comment on what they're telling you with their actions.

Is This My Nose? Fun things to do!

How eye contact is key to your baby's language learning

Babies' vision is a bit different to adults' - they can't see things unless they're nice and close. But eye contact does play a key role in their learning.

By making eye contact with your baby and looking at the things they're interested in, you can help them make connections between your words and the world around them. For more information visit Tiny Happy People www.bbc.co.uk/tiny-happy-people/lets-talk-baby-talk-eye-contact-zybsm39

Having a wiggle

Wiggles and wriggles are your baby's way of testing out their muscles and gaining coordination.

By naming the wiggly bits, you'll help them learn the words for different body parts too.

Action Songs are great for wiggle times.

Join in and sing along at the CBeebies Baby Club to the 'The Action Song'.
